Give utilitarian bulletin boards personality by disguising them as artful silhouettes.

STEP 1

Download and print our profile templates from countryliving.com/template, then use a photocopier to enlarge them by 130 percent.

STEP 2

Center each enlarged profile on an 11- by 17-inch corkboard ($4.99 per board; craftsetc.com), and trace around it with a pen.

STEP 3

Working on a protected surface, such as a chopping block or self-healing mat, slowly score the pen lines with an X-Acto knife. Because of the cork's thickness, you'll need to go over each cut several times before slicing all the way through.

STEP 4

Spray the silhouettes with two coats of flat black paint, let dry overnight, and hang with adhesive mounting strips ($2.49 for nine; officedepot.com).
